'Funds Ample To Hold Cotton'--Meyer

COMMITTEE CHIEF URGES SOUTH NOT TO BE 'ALARMED'

Credit Banks Ready To Advance Fortune If Necessary

NO REASON TO BE PANICKY NOW

Regardless Of What Forecast Shows, South Is Safe

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 22.—

(AP)—The federal intermediate credit banks are prepared to advance $200,000,000, if necessary, to meet the present cotton price situation, Eugene Meyer, chairman of President Coolidge's cotton committee, said upon his arrival here today on a tour of the cotton belt.

In a statement issued before he went into conference with cotton men and bankers of South Carolina Mr. Meyer warned the South not to become panicky over the reported prospects of a large government cotton report Monday.

Regardless of what the report may show, he declared: "The storage and financial resources of the country are ample to take care of the surplus and market it at fair prices, provided the people do not get excited and panicky."

MURDER SUSPECT FINALLY ARRESTED

Ben Schue Is Caught In Varina After Long Hunt

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Ben Schue, 28, who had been sought in connection with the death of D. F. Greer, merchant of Spavinaw, last Saturday, was arrested yesterday at Varina, Iowa, in Pottawatomie county, by Sheriff R. H. Winegard.

Schue was found at the home of his parents. Oklahoma authorities were at once notified of the capture and were expected to leave almost at once for Schue. Whether the captive will ask for extradition papers or not has not been disclosed.

Mrs. Anita Greer, wife of the Spavinaw merchant, is said to have been friendly with Schue, which accounts for the man's arrest. Schue has been sought since the finding of the body of the Spavinaw merchant in a bed of flames Saturday afternoon.

The wife is charged jointly with murder with Schue and is held in the county jail, according to W. W. Powell, county attorney of Mays county, Okla.

Greer was buried at Anniston, Ala., yesterday. Mrs. Greer was a Birmingham girl.

HARBOR GIVES UP BODIES OF GAME WARDENS TODAY

Confessed Slayer Of Officers Leads Way To Watery Grave

STONES HELPED IN THE BURIAL

Roy Nunn Tells How He Weighted The Bodies In Sacks

MARQUETTE, Mich., Oct. 22.—

(AP)—The Marquette harbor, on Lake Superior, off here today, yielded up the bodies of Arvid Erickson and Emil Skoglund, state game wardens, who, Roy Nunn, ex-convict and suspected poacher, last night confessed slaying when the men attempted to arrest him on September 29.

Nunn was taken to the harbor, on the fringe of the Michigan woods, and pointed out the spot where he confessed throwing the bodies, after placing them in sacks, which were weighted down with stones.

The slaying, according to Nunn's confession, police said, resulted when the wardens attempted to arrest him at Sands Plains, near here, for unlawful possession of a gun, a technical charge, on which it is believed they intended to hold him while investigating reports that he had been "headlighting" deer in the district.

The officers had received numerous reports that deer were being killed by this method, which consists of throwing a strong spotlight into the woods at night. The deer, which are attracted to the light, fall easy prey to hunters.

NEW KIND OF BREAD MAKES COMPLETE FOOD AT 23 CENTS PER DAY

By International News Service VIENNA, Oct. 22.—A nourishing bread that will amply sustain life at the cost of 23 cents a day has been produced by an Austrian. The bread is made of herbs, nuts, apples and other vegetable substance and baked into a hard brick. Twenty-five grams of the bread eaten without more ado than nibbling it is sufficient for breakfast. Another fifty grams during the rest of the day will give vigorous life.

The cost of all this daily nourishment is one and a half Austrian schillings (23 cents). Dr. Stein, who compounded the bread declares that for twelve years it has been his only substance and that he has completely done away with kitchens and dining rooms. The economic effect he declares has been to reduce his living costs sixty per cent and it has given him perfect health, although he is sixty-two years old.

Arctic Tale of Love and Gold is Revealed in Divorce at St. Paul; Court Record Like Movie Story

International News Service ST. PAUL, Minn.—The scuttling of a romance of Alaskan trails and gold camps has been revealed in a common divorce complaint on file in district court here.

It involves the stealing of the young wife of a sourdough by a sheik of the northlands known only as Handsome Harry, a story which might have inspired a Robert W. Service poem or a tale by Jack London.

It is the story of a mad hunt for hidden gold in the frozen wilds, successful strikes, the blooming of young love, companionship of a young couple in search of more gold and happiness, followed by desertion, heartbreak and despair.

Thomas DeCamp, after 13 years is suing Mary Campbell DeCamp for a divorce. She may be dead for all he knows, but he desires his legal freedom.

He left the Twin cities 25 years ago to seek his fortune. He found it in Alaska and also found the love of Mary Campbell whom he married. Then he lost a good part of his fortune and also lost all of her love.

DeCamp met Mary at Fairbanks, Alaska, and in March, 1904, they were married by a United States commissioner. Together they roamed the frozen wastes from Fairbanks to Clarey City to Otter Creek, Golden City and Ruby City and other points, seeking always more gold.

Then out of the cold one day there swaggered Handsome Harry—he was known by no other name in the gold camps. Perhaps Mary was weary of the gold trail, perhaps she longed to return to the cities with their bright lights and entertainments. At any rate her husband charges, she disappeared one night with Handsome Harry.

For several years DeCamp deserted the trail of gold to follow another trail, but he never succeeded in overtaking his errant wife and the handsome home-breaker. With life looted of love his gold meant little, DeCamp said, and gradually his pokes of dust grew thinner and his fortune dwindled.

Now he has even been robbed of his old Alaska for the railroads have spread their civilizing steel bands into the wastes he once roamed and it "became crowded" up there in Alaska so he has returned to the Twin cities where he is visiting with a daughter by an earlier marriage.

AGREEMENT ON STEEL NOW HINTED

Gary Forecasts Pact To Safeguard The U. S. Market

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(AP)—

Possibility of an amicable understanding between the steel manufacturers of Europe and America in world trade was suggested by Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, at the opening session of the American Iron and Steel Institute today.

"We have heard recently of considerable discussion relating to anticipated competition between the iron and steel manufacturers of the United States and foreign competitors," he said, "but it is believed that should it become necessary an international conference would be held between all these interests and a full, open discussion indulged in after which a fair understanding could be reached."

Georgia Cotton Trading Act Valid

ATLANTA, Oct. 22.—(AP)—B.

L. Layton, representative of the cotton brokerage firm of Fenner and Beane, was found guilty today of violation of the Georgia securities law, which prohibits dealing in cotton futures on margin, and was sentenced by Judge John D. Humphreys, of the Fulton superior court, to pay a fine of $1,000 and serve a 12 months jail sentence.

The trial was in the nature of a test case of the Georgia law. Thirty-nine other brokers are under indictment on similar charges.

NEGRO SEEN IN DECATUR HOME

Screams Bring Help And Intruder Runs Away

Decatur police are searching for a negro intruder, who frightened members of the family at the home of Miss Lu Giles, well known Decatur resident, who was said to have been awakened by the noise made by the negro, who threatened her if she made an outcry.

Screams, however, brought help from other members of the family and the intruder fled. A good description of the negro was given the police, it was stated.

Stephenson Box Yields Documents

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Discovery today of a large box containing hundreds of documents pertaining to D. C. Stephenson's personal affairs, gave new impetus to the grand jury investigation of charges that Stephenson, while grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan, entered into corrupt deals with high officials.

The box, weighing 1300 pounds, was found at a storage house and was taken to the grand jury room.

Interest Higher In Revival Meet

Evangelistic services at Wiloughby Presbyterian church are growing in interest. Last night Rev. E. E. Hendrick brought a great message to a large congregation. His subject was, "The Value of a Christian Home," and his sermon will long be remembered by those who heard him.

The public is invited to services each day at 10 a. m. and 7 p. m. The evangelist will preach today at noon at the lower shop gate.

BURCH IS QUOTED AS BLAMING ROW FOR THE TRAGEDY

Shooting Is Preceded By Quarrel Says Defendant

MOTHER HID, HE TELLS SHERIFF

Prominent Planter Is Shot Twice at His Dwelling

Herbert Burch, 24-year old Cullman youth, is held in the county jail in Cullman on a charge of murder, as result of having slain his father, Monroe Burch, at their home near Cullman last night, according to a telephone message to The Daily today from Sheriff J. W. Lambert.

According to the story told by young Burch to the officer, the killing followed a family row.

Funeral arrangements for the elder Burch had not been completed early today, word being awaited from three sons, two of whom are in Akron, Ohio, and one in Washington, D. C. Burch was a prominent planter of Cullman county and his death created widespread interest.

Sheriff Lambert told The Daily he had been informed by Herbert Burch that Thursday at noon, there was a family quarrel during which time his father made threats against other members of the family.

During the afternoon, Burch is quoted as declaring, his mother and nine year old sister "hid out," while he and his father, accompanied by a 16-year old brother, worked in the cotton fields.

Returning to the house, it is said the elder Burch ate his supper first and afterwards some of the other members of the family were eating, when the father is alleged by his son to have entered the room, armed with a club, and declaring he was "going to wind the whole thing up."

Young Burch is said to have procured a shotgun and a short time later shot his father, as the latter stood on the front porch of the home. The father staggered into the yard and was shot again by the youth, who is later said to have notified officers of the tragedy.

Streets and Sanitation—W. F. Boswell, chairman; Aldermen W. E. Roper and S. H. Malone.

CALIFORNIA COAST IS ROCKED BY PAIR OF SEVERE QUAKE

PARK REFUGE OF HUNDREDS

Plate Windows Are Broken In Noted Hostelry

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22.—

(AP)—Two violent earthquakes rocked the central coast counties of California this morning just an hour apart. A third and lighter shock occurred later in the morning. The first shock was at 4:36 a. m. and lasted about 20 seconds. The second was at 5:36 a. m. and was much sharper, but lasted only 15 seconds. No injuries and no serious damage had been reported from either.

The center of the shocks appeared to be between San Francisco and Monterey Bay.

The tremors were felt as far south at San Luis Obispo, approximately 250 miles from San Francisco and as far north as Napa, 50 miles from here. They also were felt at Stockton, 90 miles east and south.

At the Palace hotel, one of the largest hostels in the city, plate glass windows were broken, plaster fell from ceilings and small cracks appeared in the lobby floor.

At the new Bulletin building, where the Associated Press offices are located, clocks were stopped, molten type metal was shaken from the pots in the stereotyping rooms and furniture jiggled around.

Santa Barbara, which suffered in the 1925 quake, apparently did not feel today's tremors. Many wild rumors were in circulation over the state about today's shocks. One of them was that the 16-story Pacific Gas and Electric company building here had been turned around. So far as could be ascertained, no damage was done to that building, which is of modern, quake and fireproof construction.

Golden Gate park, one of the largest in the country, was the refuge of hundreds within a few minutes after the first shock. The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company reported the quakes were felt in virtually every town up and down the coast for 300 miles in California and for 100 or more miles inland.

BELIEVES IN MARKET

A. A. Jones, president of the Kiwanis club, stated today that he believes the curb market, which the Kiwanis club will likely take hold of at a later date, will be an outstanding success in the increasing of friendly relationships between country people and these cities. It is anticipated that the market can be put in running order in the next four months.

DEATH LIST GROWS IN CUBAN STORM

Belated Reports Out Of Provinces Show Life Toll Heavy

HAVANA, Oct. 22.—(AP)—

Belated advices reaching Havana today indicated that more than 650 persons perished at various places in the province of Havana, Matanzas, Santa Clara and Pinar Del Rio, in the hurricane which struck the island Wednesday morning.

Ten municipalities were wiped out and 6,500 persons were rendered homeless. It is thought the material damage will reach nearly $100,000,000. No definite figures on the total number hurt on the island were available.

In Havana alone it is estimated that 200 persons were killed and 1,600 injured and that houses of 3,000 families were destroyed.

The two villages comprising the municipality of Batabano, on the south coast of the island, reported more than 300 dead and both towns destroyed. They were the first upon which the hurricane fell when it came out of the Caribbean sea and crossed the Isle of Pines.

Bejuco, lying midway between Havana and Batabano, had 80 fatalities. At Gabriel there were eleven. Central Fajaro, Guira Del Malana nine, Camp Columbus eight, Guanabacoa three, Matanzas City six and Guines three.

Few reports had been received today from parts of the municipalities Matanzas, Santa Clara and Pinar Del Rio, over which the storm passed. They were cut off from communication because of wrecked telephone and telegraph lines and blocked roads.

The survivors in various districts, many of them seriously injured, were without food, medicine or water and frantic appeals were made for aid.

Two relief committees have been formed. Nearly $100,000 already has been subscribed. Government and private trucks and automobiles have been put into service in efforts to reach interior villages.

In Havana all the homeless have been given shelter.

A preliminary estimate of the damage done to shipping is $5,000,000.

Desperado Shoots Bystander To Death

BATTLE ENDS IN OPEN FIELD

Deputy Wins Fight With Black In Shot Exchange

FLORENCE, Ala., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Two men were killed and three injured here late last night in a battle between a negro desperado and police.

The dead: Jim Adams, insurance agent and Neal Roberts negro.

The injured: Policeman John M. Bennett, Policeman J. Will Young, and Carl Mangrum.

Roberts resisted arrest in a negro quarter and began firing promiscuously. He mistook Adams for an officer and fired upon him, death resulting instantly. Policeman Bennett and Young and Mangrum fell before the negro's weapon. They will recover.

Roberts was killed by Chief Deputy Sheriff J. O. Davis, who shot it out with the negro in an open field. Davis escaped without a scratch, notwithstanding the negro fired several times at him at close range.

Roberts, well known by police, who has appeared in court here, came to Florence last night from Iron City, threatening to kill Police Officer Young and Margaret Key, negro woman.

Roberts appeared in negro quarters last night and began firing. Police were notified by Margaret Key, in front of whose house Roberts had begun his gun fire.

Police Officers John M. Bennett and Chief of Night Force J. Will Young rushed to the Sweetwater negro district, but were unable to find a trace of Roberts and only frightened negroes in the street. When they turned to leave, Roberts, who police believe was in hiding, fired sending a load of buckshot into the police car from the rear at such close range both men were seriously wounded.

Bleeding profusely the police stopped the car and ran back to search for the negro desperado.

Bennett, getting weak from the loss of blood, then asked that Young get him to the hospital and the two men notified the sheriff and went to the infirmary.

Stopped by a voice which said: "Carry me to Tennessee," Jim Adams, Carl Mangrum and Jack Adams, in a car enroute to Waterlock, stopped their machine.

The men halted their car and prepared to give the negro a lift. When the negro drew closer he saw that they were white men and Mangrum believed also thought they were police. He fired point-blank at them. Adams was fatally wounded by gunshot at close range and a major artery pierced. He died en route to the Coffee Memorial hospital.

Young Adams called the sheriff, but at that time Sheriff Morrison had mobilized all his deputies and many citizens were armed and scouring every field in the Florence district for the marauder.

An hour later, Carl Copeland, Sheriff Morrison and Chief Deputy Sheriff Davis sighted a figure on Walnut street, just off Tennessee street, and they stopped their car and turned out the lights.

The search down the street proved fruitless and Sheriff Morrison circled a block with a second deputy, while Davis went down an alley to an open field, near the Florence lumber company.

About 100 feet from the street, Davis said he saw a figure and in the clear moonlight easily discerned a shotgun, and he yelled to the negro to drop the gun. Instead the negro drew the gun about half way his shoulder and began firing. The negro fired a second time, according to Deputy Davis.

TALKING UNDER WATER TO BE THE NEXT FEAT OF SCIENCE

EXPERTS OF NAVY PREDICT VOICE TO BE HEARD IN SEA

Efforts Redoubled To Make Messages Easy To Hear AIR CONQUERED STUDY WATER

Short Waves Likely To Be Answer To Problem

BY WILLIAM S. NEAL International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—Having made the atmosphere an almost perfect medium for transmitting the human voice, scientists now are redoubling their efforts to make it simple to talk under water.

Navy experts predict that in the future it will be almost as simple to communicate in the depth of the ocean as above it.

Termining the new science, "supersonics," the Navy's experts are bending their energies in particular toward improvement of communication between submarines.

Since the World War great advance has been made in the art of underwater communication and depth sounding, says an announcement by the Navy department. Up until 1918 the chief mediums were audible sound receivers and transmitters.

Discoveries in the application of the Piezo-electric effect to underwater sound transmission and reception, however, have opened up a new field.

Use of Short Waves

"The term 'supersonics' refers to frequencies above the limits of audibility of the human ear," says the Navy announcement. "For instance, the human ear may be considered a sound receiver tuned to receive sounds lying between frequencies of 3 to 30,000 cycles per second. Sounds lying above this spectrum are inaudible and the reception of these sounds is accomplished by the use of the heterodyne principle.

"By use of these short waves it has been possible to telephone under water and to telegraph at speeds of 20 to 30 words per minute. This is considered by scientists as quite an advance over the older methods of audible transmission and reception under water."

So important does the Navy regard the possibilities of underwater communication that the Naval Research Laboratory at Bellevue, D. C., has established a sound division with Dr. Harvey C. Hayes acting as superintendent. Two barges have been fitted up to be used in the sound experiments.

The research has been spurred, not only here but abroad, as a result of the submarine menace during the World war. At the beginning of the war, the Navy's devices for detecting the presence of submarines through sound receivers were unsatisfactory. Toward the end of the war great improvement was made. Now a sonic depth finder has been developed which it is declared will accurately place a submarine in depths of 40 to 4,000 fathoms and in a radius of forty miles.

New Depth Finder

A new peace-time use has been discovered for the sonic depth finder. When the Navy department was called upon to survey the route of the War Department's submarine telegraph cable which serves Alaska, the problem of a rough ocean bed, made up partly of submerged mountains, faced it.

By the use of the sonic depth finder—measuring the depth of the water by the angle of reception of the vessel's own propeller sounds which were reflected—the Navy experts were able to make a map of the bed of the ocean without seeing it.

Another use for this war-born device is in protecting Atlantic ship lanes against huge ice-bergs. The distance and bearing of the bergs is obtained by means of echoes given off by the submerged faces of the bergs. While the range is still somewhat limited, scientists hope to perfect the sounder to a degree where it will be comparatively easy to spot ice-bergs and plot their course.

who said he dropped behind an old abandoned truck and returned the fire with his rifle. The negro was struck by the first shot but did not fall, according to Davis, who fired again and the negro toppled to the ground.

Hundreds were armed by this time and the district was in an uproar. The continual firing, which came from widespread sections, gave many the opinion that there was a riot. Crowds gathered everywhere.

Neal Roberts, whom officers claim, was a whiskey runner, was charged with assault and intent to murder several months ago in the case of Felix Holton, whom he is said to have tried to kill. He was acquitted in this case.

Adams is survived by his wife and several children and was an agent of the Allbrooks Insurance company, of Florence.

Mangrum and the police officers were all hit about the neck and shoulders and physicians believe that all will recover. Only the police are in the infirmary.

COTTON CONDITION IN VALLEY BETTER

Gist Discusses Crop Prospects For This Season

The Tennessee Valley made the second highest gain in cotton conditions, based on the report of October 1, according to an article by F. W. Gist, agricultural statistician of Auburn, published in the current issue of The Alabama Farm News as follows:

Our cotton reporters raised their estimate of the present crop, from September 16 to October 1 by about 149,000 bales. The condition is now found to be 65 per cent of normal, which indicates an acre-yield of 168 pounds of lint per acre. On the acreage being picked this would give Alabama a total crop of 1,316,000 bales. This is within 47,000 bales of the crop last year.

The increased production was estimated in spite of the storm damage which certain counties suffered during the period between this report and the last. The storm, accompanied by heavy rains passed through practically all counties south of the Blackbelt, and measuring by reports received, the disturbance probably destroyed about 37,000 bales. In the remainder of the State estimates were raised equivalent to about 186,000 bales. The leaf worm had left the bolls perfectly apparent in the north half of the state, and from this clear view of the volume of fruit set and safe, reporters found their impression of the size of the crop taking a sharp upward turn.

There were ginned prior to Oct 1 in Alabama 565,824 bales, or 340,000 bales during the last two weeks. Excepting the two days of rain which accompanied the storm, the weather was ideal for picking and ginning, which was taken advantage of by the farmer with such extra labor as was available. More cotton was ginned in the past two weeks, than during the same period last year.

The following statement shows the condition reported on October 1, and on September 16 in the various crop reporting district of Alabama, from which changes may

It's a wonder there are any farmers left at all, cotton prices should chase the remainder out of the fields and into town to search for employment in factories.

We like calling this projected civic interest "community market" too, if you call it curb market someone might take it to heart and think you want it stopped.

Dr. Norris is expected to bring the Bible into play in his coming trial for the killing of a prominent Fort Worth lumberman, at least his prosecutor is reading the Scriptures so that he may be able to combat the pastor. In England murder is murder, in America murder is likely to be passed by, technicalities, escapes, anything to save the neck of the guilty party. McLean, Norris prosecutor, says he hopes that religion will not enter into the trial, but you will see that religion will enter into the trial, jurors minds are always alert when the Scriptures are mentioned, so are the minds of men, so are the minds of lawyers who see an opportunity to make this regrettable incident a Biblical battle, instead of the battle between self defense and a broken neck.

If news came today that a civic proposal had been closed in favor of these cities and that a really magnificent industrial stride had been taken, which would you rather be, the man who mops his brow and says, "Well, I don't know where it's coming from, but I have done my share, I have helped to build something," or the man who sits back in his corner and says nothing, waiting to see if what others have said will result from the industrial growth, will actually come true and if he may profit? Which role had you rather enter, which part had you rather play? Suppose that industrial project materialized tonight and you found that you hadn't done a thing towards bringing it here, would you feel just right about the way you have treated your cities? Many who are in worse financial condition than you have braced their backs to the wall and asked for extended credit at the banks, that's what it has taken from those who really wanted to see the city grow. The fight has been a lesson to many who did not believe such a spirit existed, others still will fail to see, not wishing to open their eyes.

FLORIDA THANKFUL AS DISASTER PASSES BY ON OTHER SIDE

There are many hearts in Florida today beating normally again, many heads and hands are raised heavenward, another hurricane has passed by, gone this time, others suffered, but Florida escaped.

People of this Southland are glad that Florida escaped this blow, sorry that Havana had to feel the lurch of the wind, the battering of the elements over which man can not pass a staying hand. It is terrible to know that danger is near, a danger which can be averted only by the hand of an All seeing One, a danger in which men can play no part other than sufferers. Florida has suffered, the last hurricane was a severe stab at Florida progress, yet proved what a wonderful people reside in that state when with an unflagging spirit they went at once to work in toiling to rebuild their stricken cities. Florida is fortunate this time, Alabama and the other states of the union feel a warm sympathy and some how are pleased that Florida has not again faced the ordeal.

RESPONDING TO A CALL, PEOPLE DO NOT UNDERSTAND.

While the ladies of the Benevolent Society, which society has kept the Benevolent hospital going since it came into existence are busy attempting donations and memberships, half the people wonder what for, they ask themselves why this plea for further donation when we just finished donating to a cause for the same hospital? That question is not at all unlikely, neither is it untimely, it is simply the case of the public not being acquainted with the fundamental reason for such a drive.

Did you read the other day of a pitiable condition existing among farmers' families, have you seen from time to time in the Daily small articles telling that a family is in need of assistance at such and such a house, on such and such a street, have you ever visited people outside your own sphere and learned the truth of that saying, "One half the world does not know how the other half lives?"

People that is the reason for the Benevolent drive. Not for funds to build a hospital, not for funds to pay salaries, not for funds to buy comforts for those already in the institution, but for funds to take care of those who will be listed among the unfortunates this winter. The call is not untimely, nor is the hospital asking too much. It is good that the cities have a society for taking care of charity cases.

SOCIALIST PARTY HEAD LEAVES A TROUBLED WORLD.

Eugene V. Debs, leader of the Socialist party in America is dead. To Mr. Debs America was a troubled and turbulent America, he lived in a fight and died only after a strong will to live had finally been downed. The dead leader is characterized as a man who loved his friends and as a man firm in his convictions. After all that is about the total which can be said for any man, yet America will wonder if a new leader will take his place, or if the Socialist party will disintegrate entirely. To those of opposite political views disintegration of party principles will seem a relief to America with her political enemies now full to overflowing. America does not need the Socialist doctrine, she isn't a nation in which strength can be used as a guiding factor, she isn't a nation to be driven, she must be persuaded. The Socialist doctrine did not come to its full bloom under the leadership of Debs and for the sake of Americanism it is hoped that the principles of that party will never flourish in free America. The Socialist leader is gone, it is not worthwhile to talk disparagingly of one who believed he was right and remained true to the things he upheld. A man is to be criticised for such an action.

FITILE MAYBE, BUT NOBLE

"Several weeks ago holes were dug in the paving in various parts of the city for workmen to do the job underneath. These holes have been left exactly as they were when the workmen finished the job and they endanger both the necks of the hundreds of car drivers who use the streets and the springs on their automobiles. Why doesn't the city fill and repave these cavities?" asks the Dothan Eagle.

The Daily would suggest that the Eagle has a long and rough road ahead, literally and figuratively speaking, if that newspaper is opening a campaign to get some streets repaired or paved. Friends on the Eagle staff the Daily would like to give you a word of fatherly advice, although you have been in the newspaper fight several years longer than your north Alabama contemporary. Get all the lines fixed up before you start driving the horse, asking for roads, praying for roads, fighting for roads, demanding roads, it is all the same. Now you get them, now you don't. If you need some repairs you had better start your own building fund, else you will not be out of the trenches by Christmas 1927. It's a long hard fight in which you will endure much you have not yet endured. Repairers are not going to run over themselves getting on the job to fix those holes, you have yet many springs to buy for the rusty roadster.

The foregoing, from the Albany-Decatur Daily, is a doleful note. It does not cheer us. We would even love to ignore it, but our high esteem for the truth forces us to pause and confess that it contains sense.

Once more it reminds us with despair that the power of the press is not the lofty ideal of influence, but the painful and prosaic reality of insignificance. Especially in regard to politics when its power is compared to that of a ward boss, or in civic affairs when its power is compared to that of the city clerk's third assistant secretary.

But, withal, we shall continue to bang away against insurmountable odds and plead in a voice that possibly cannot be heard across the street: "Gentlemen of the City Council, why don't you do something about those holes in our pavement? They were dug several months ago by workmen, and somebody is responsible that they aren't filled up. Why don't you find out who's responsible and have the cavities refilled? The holes not only mar the beauty of our little Queen City of the Wiregrass, but they jar the backbones of innocent taxpayers who ride over them in their cars. Moreover, they tend to destroy the morale of the car drivers because the majority of them have not paid for their machines, and they won't want to after those plagued holes lessen every bolt in them. Gentlemen of the Council, maybe you haven't paid for your automobiles. Maybe you haven't, and we know how it is. Personally, we haven't, and we do. And we feel that we speak for the majority. So please give us a little of what you said you'd give, i. e., Service."

And, although it pains us to admit that the power of the press is, if anything, intangible, and our voice can be correspondingly compared to a cry in the wilderness, nevertheless we feel that in championing the cause of the down-trodden masses we have performed our duty in noble manner.—Dothan Eagle.

Selling Religion.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE. (Copyright, 1926, by The Star Co., For Albany-Decatur Daily).

In offering Mr. Brisbane's daily editorials The Albany-Decatur Daily does not necessarily concur with his opinions but offers them as the sentiments of the highest paid editorial writer in this country.

THE QUEEN of Rumania, interesting lady worthy of hospitality, is here, and on the front page. The widow of a president of the United States comes on the same boat, and she is not on the front page.

This is an 18-karat democracy, but we are still a little more interested in queens than in ordinary people.

The serious editor of the New York American fears that with the queen's arrival this country may show a disposition closely approaching snobbishness.

Troops are sent to meet the queen, the officials of New York City warned to wear striped trousers, black frock coats, stovepipe hats, etc. That may not be snobbishness, but we evidently feel that while Uncle Sam may look at a queen, he must do it respectfully, hat in hand.

THE RUMANIAN Christian societies of New York, greeting the Queen of Rumania, remind you how close that language is to the old Roman tongue. The greeting begins "Bun Venit Majestate, Este A Distiansa Onoare."

A small boy can notice how much that is like the Latin.

BRITISH WRITERS, not without reason, are amused by what they call "our roveling before royalty."

However, this country is not more excited about the Rumanian queen than England was about the arrival of Buffalo Bill. Each country is interested in what it hasn't got.

THIS country will learn after awhile that a highway with heavy automobiles traveling fifty miles an hour with no rails to keep them in place is as dangerous as any railroad with its express trains.

In a head-on collision last Sunday one man turned suddenly from behind a truck, put on the brakes and skidded into a car coming from the opposite direction. Four were killed and all the fourteen occupants of the two cars hurt.

Speed should be limited strictly on the public highways, if necessary, by a mechanical appliance on every car. And reckless driving resulting in death should be punished as manslaughter.

LORRIAN A. THURSTON, editor of the Honolulu Advertiser, is here. And can tell you about our Hawaiian Islands things more interesting than the Queen of Rumania will have to tell you. For instance, Hawaii is the only supply station for ships and flying machines in a Pacific ocean territory bounded east and west by Hong Kong and Panama, north and south by Unalaska and Tahiti.

TAKE a piece of the globe as big as that and move it eastward. You will find that it would reach from San Francisco across the United States and across the Atlantic ocean, across Europe, across Turkey in Asia and into the middle of Persia. North and south it would reach from South Greenland to Rio Janeiro.

Our Hawaiian Islands the center and controlling point of such a vast place, are worth attention.

INCIDENTALLY these islands produce one hundred million dollars worth of sugar every year, thirty million dollars' worth of pineapples, and they have only begun their productivity. One concern has recently purchased an island to plant five thousands more acres of pineapples.

AN ENGLISH girl has been in a trance for twelve months, and from every direction come sincere efforts to help her. Faith cures of a dozen kinds, spiritualists, Herbalists. A Japanese wrestler believes that physical treatment would relieve her and a good Christian sends a bottle of holy water from the miraculous springs of Lourdes.

TO THE material eye the case is that of an electric bell that will not ring. The wires are out of control or the battery is weak.

When you consider that there are in the brain of that girl as in every other human brain, twelve thousand million nerve cells, you wonder that we are not all of us mentally out of order all of the time.

A CAMPAIGN has been started under the direction of the very able Rev. Charles Stelzle "to sell religion to the people." This means an advertising campaign to arouse interest in religion. It might be wise to hire a good out Lenin's policies and prove that the Proletariat, which means the working man, whose capital is his hands rather than his brain can rule a country, directed by the right theorists.

But Trotsky is defeated by Stalin, and admits it. Stalin decides that what Russia needs is foreign credit, also foreign skill, to help build up industries.

Foreign money will make Russian leaders very rich, and Russia will gradually change from a Proletariat government, which never could be, to what communism calls "the hated Bourgeoisie."

Radio To Take More Vital Place In Nation's Life, Says Hoover Aid

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—There is not the slightest danger that broadcasting will deteriorate in its service to the American public, according to Judge S. B. Davis, solicitor of the department of commerce, and among Secretary Hoover's chief radio advisers.

A continued march of expansion is seen by Davis. He declared that the broadcasters and public will determine the most valuable uses of this form of communication and that radio will take even a more vital place in the life of the nation than now.

Absence of regulation, chaotic conditions here and there, serious interference, and air free to anybody who can raise the price of a broadcasting station present difficulties, but they are simply steps in radio development, according to Davis.

"Problems will be solved by mutual arrangement among members of the radio industry, through the working out of fundamental laws which have solved other tangled competitive projects, or through channels of legislation," Davis declared.

"There are many theories as to the best manner of meeting the threatened difficulties. No one has yet presented a panacea, but we may be certain that in some way or other, radio lanes will remain open and traffic will move freely without interference."

A radical change in the function of the radio receiving set was predicted by Davis. He said that there will be less and less of studio programs and more transmissions of actual events.

"The true and final purposes of a radio set will be in the placing of its owner in contact with whatever event he desires to attend, whether it be church, theatre, prize fight, lecture, baseball game or political speech—whether it be in New York, London, or San Francisco," Davis said.

"There must be consideration given to the economic phases of such a change—the lectures and other events broadcast to the world must be financed—but new demands upon radio will be met by new methods of eliminating the difficulties, just as the scientific and real pitfalls that cast hazards over the course of development today are vanishing with better understanding and knowledge."

Davis anticipates the use of the receiving set as the newspaper is used—to keep in touch with what is happening.

"In addition to reading the newspaper description of the event after it has occurred we will actually listen in as the event is transpiring," he explained.

"Development is likely along utility lines rather than in the mere transmission of music and entertainment."

Davis said in one field radio is unique—that is from the broadcasters' microphones a speaker may reach an audience of millions, possible with no other form of communication.

Teachers Wanted Cullman Schools

A dozen additional teachers are desired in the public schools of Cullman county, according to the following announcement of H. G. Dowling, county superintendent: Due to unexpected conditions there are about twelve vacancies for teachers in short term rural schools of Cullman county. Graduates of accredited high schools or former teachers can secure emergency certificates to fill these places since licensed teachers are not available. If interested apply at once.

and robber brigands, separation of the lovers through their own misunderstanding, an intrigue of renegade mountebanks to a climax so dramatically staged that the audience yesterday sat stilled for that eloquent moment before the applause. Then it came.

Agnes Ayres, charming lady of "The Sheikh," returns to the screen in "The Son of the Sheikh" for "flash-backs" to that earlier picture. Her acting proves anew that she is a sensitive and intelligent performer. Karl Dane, the gum-chewing Slim of "The Big Parade," goes further along the highway to success by his rendition of the role of Ramadan, giant friend of Ahmed. Montague Love is as villainous a Moor as ever hurled a knife, and thoroughly satisfies the exacting demands of his role. And, believe it or not, Bull Montana appears in turban and awning-striped robes!

Love Goes Adventuring in
PARADISE by COSMO HAMILTON
 Author of SCANDAL & BLINDNESS OF VIRTUE

Three times the hooter. Three times and three and three echoes. The native hooter at the oars. The life came to life.

Chrissie waved her hand. "Give my love to Panton Street." "And good old Piccadilly Circus."

"Trafalgar Square—" "And the Metropole." "All right, all right."

Lady George could hardly see the old worn boat, the glistening native, her dear boy Tony and the girl he had taken from Teddy Sherwood at the ball before the war.

"Don't forget your promise," cried out Pollock.

Chrissie kissed her hand and wrinkled up her nose. If that cynic were right about Lord Stirling, and the chart turned out to be a ghastly joke, she could nurse poor old Tony through an illness of the spirit as she had nursed him through his physical wreckage, and sing their way back to Panton Street.

As the life turned round slowly, Tony raised his hat and flashed the well-known winning smile.

"Now," she said to McCouste, whose red-fringed eyes had followed the chart to a spot in the heart of the village, "before you begin to dig, you must say these things to my people."

With Chrissie at his side, as she always was, and an expression of the deepest emotion in his usually smiling eyes, Tony looked slowly round at the flower-crowned natives who, in all the glory of their ancient finery, had formed an archway to the throb of the drum logs, the hollow boom of the tom-toms, the hissing of the wind in the palm leaves, the perpetual roll of the sea, they were reclining and surging in the dance passion, singing their guttural chant.

Raising his hands for silence, when all sound died and every movement ceased, Tony turned again to McCouste. "Tell them that, from this moment, the torture rite is closed."

"Tell them that the day of unkindness will never come again—Tell them that the young white Chief is here to dedicate his life to their well-being with sympathy for their needs. Tell them that under my kingship they shall be treated with brotherhood and understanding—his voice broke—and ask for their faith in me."

And McCouste told them in their language and a mighty shout rang out.

"Now dig."

And as McCouste stabbed the earth with the spade, Chrissie, the courageous Chrissie, trembled like a leaf. "Oh, God, dear God," she cried in her soul, "don't let this be a cruel joke. Oh, don't, for Tony's sake, who has come back through all these years to do his job."

The spade struck something with a metallic clink. The earth was cool.

"Do you take King Tony to be your lawful husband?" he asked.

"I should think I do," she said.

"Do I take Queen Chrissie to be my wedded wife? You bet your life," he said.

And he placed the book to her lips and to his lips and held out his one good arm. And she pressed close with her chin no higher than his top-most waistcoat button, and adored. (Of course he was a blooming rent! A King, a Chieftain, a Wing Commander, a loyal and faithful husband, a sportsman and a lover.)

"Oh, Chris, my wonderful Chris! What can I do for you?"

"You've done it all," she said, wrinkling her nose. "But I don't think I shall grumble if you do it all again."

Fifteen Hundred Students From 68 Institutions Gather At Meet

All-Southern Baptist Student Conference To Convene In Magic City On October 28

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Fifteen hundred students representing sixty-eight educational institutions and sixteen states will be registered Thursday, October 28, when the All-Southern Baptist Student Conference convenes for the initial program of a four day conference to be held at the First Baptist church, this city. This will mark the first of a series of annual conferences arranged by the inter-board commission of the Southern Baptist convention.

"An impression of the claim of Christianity, an arousal of the students of the Baptist church a new sense of their duties and responsibilities, and an effort to establish bonds of sympathy between our church leaders and the students in order to enlist our young people in the programs of our church," was designated as the purpose of the conference by Dr. James R. Hobbs, pastor of the First Baptist church and chairman of the committee on arrangements for the meeting.

Auburn, Montevallo, Newton Institute, Judson and Howard colleges, Baptist academies and Normal colleges of the state, will supply Alabama's quota of delegates to the conference. Howard college students are taking a personal interest in entertainment plans for the visiting delegates, the Birmingham pastor stated. Two of their number will take part in the conference program.

Outstanding Baptist leaders scheduled to address the conference are:

Dr. Henry Alfred Porter, S. Louis; Dr. George W. Truett, Dallas, Texas; Dr. William Russell Owen, Macon, Ga.; Dr. B. D. Gray, secretary of the Baptist Home Mission board, Atlanta, a former pastor of the First Baptist church of Birmingham; Dr. L. J. VanNess, secretary of the Baptist Sunday school board, Nashville; Miss Kathleen Mallory, corresponding secretary, Women's Missionary Birmingham; Dr. J. M. Cammack, secretary, educational board South-

IT DID ALL THAT I EXPECTED AND MORE

Said Wylam Man In Speaking of the Results He Obtained From the Use of Herb Juice.

"It did all I expected it to do and a great deal more because I was skeptical before I started taking the remedy which relieved me of constipation, indigestion, gas stomach and tired, rundown system," this was the answer given the Herb Juice man a few days ago when he asked Mr. W. A. Jaxson, a well known contracting painter who resides at 433 Forty-First Street, Wylam, Ala., if Herb Juice has helped him. This gentleman, who is the very picture of good health, now tells a remarkable story about his condition before he was fortunate enough to hear about Herb Juice. The story is as follows:

W. A. JAXSON

"I admit that I don't look or feel now like I had ever been sick, but there is a vast difference in my feeling now and before I took this wonderful remedy, Herb Juice," said Mr. Jaxson. "For a long time I have been a constant sufferer from a very stubborn case of indigestion. It seemed no matter what I ate, it just would not digest. I tried eating very light diets and very digestible foods, but I never seemed to get any relief. It all seemed to lie in my stomach and ferment, from which would form gas, which bloated me very badly and caused me intense pain through my stomach and chest. I was also very nervous, so much that it seemed that I was under a high tension all the time. I could not eat, sleep or anything else and enjoy it owing to this distressed feeling. I also was badly constipated, which added to my troubles. Liver very inactive, which caused dizzy headaches and severe pains across my back and as for that, all over my body. Of course in this condition I lost strength and felt tired out all the time. I tried many different remedies and treatments for my ailments but never was lucky enough to find anything to give me relief until at last a friend of mine recommended that I try Herb Juice, so I started using Herb Juice and now after taking several bottles I can say that it certainly did a great deal more than I ever expected it to do for me. It has completely relieved me of indigestion. I can now eat anything I want and digest it properly, no more gas or indigestion pains in stomach; constipation is a thing of the past, no more dizzy or sick headache, nerves are in good shape, those terrible pains across my back and joints are gone. I have a good appetite and have gained much strength and twenty pounds in weight. To make a long story short, Herb Juice has just simply reconstructed my whole system and I am now feeling dandy in every way. I am glad to make this statement in behalf of this wonderful remedy which has done so much for me. I highly recommend Herb Juice."

Yesterday at the Princess theater, the audience who viewed Rudolph Valentino's newest film, "The Son of the Sheikh," demonstrated anew that the screen's greatest lover had made no mistake in giving his public again a thrilling desert film, in which he plays the sheik role that fits him so snugly.

It was like Babe Ruth hitting a home run—doing that thing which people like best to see him do.

The sheik's himself again. Valentino has progressed remarkably since the earlier day when he started film-goers with a new type of screen lover, "The Sheikh." There is more fire and dash and sureness in the loving

How Doctors Treat Colds And Flu

To break up a cold overnight or to cut short an attack of gripe, influenza, sore throat or tonsillitis, physicians and druggists are now recommending Calotabs, the purified and refined calomel compound tablet that gives you the effects of calomel and salts combined, without the unpleasant effects of either.

One or two Calotabs at bed-time with a swallow of water—that's all. No salts, no nausea nor the slightest interference with your eating, work or pleasure. Next morning your cold has vanished, your system is thoroughly purified and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you please—no danger.

Interesting Predictions Mark End Of Week Games; Guessing Getting Tough

You've heard that line about its being hard to tell the depth of a well by the length of the handle on the pump—well the guy who penned that flight of fancy knew more than the ordinary people, in fact he must have at one time or other attempted to pick winners and scores in southern conference football.

Light up your pipe, or powder your nose and let's get started. Alabama is playing Sewanee and without offering any odds or ends Alabama will take Sewanee on a three touchdown trip. No, we don't expect that royal Bengal to scent the marker 'neath the goal posts. That's singular, but we pick Alabama for the fur trimmed derby by exactly 20-0 and that's giving Sewanee some tremendous odds.

That was easy, let's try something else.

Well I'll declare, just look here, here's Tulane and Auburn, all set for the guessing game. Frankly working crossword puzzles is pie compared to this jam. This game is in New Orleans, Tulane is at home after having traversed both sides of the Great White Way, that's going to cause some stir. Tulane should defeat Auburn a pair of touchdowns, say 19-7.

The Chattanooga - Birmingham Southern game is of more than ordinary interest, the Moccasins having held the Oglethorpe Petrels to tie last Saturday in a thriller that kept the crowd off their seats from whistle to whistle. Chattanooga is due for a slump after having been on her toes to tie the Petrels and is likely to go down beneath the Southern drive tomorrow. Birmingham-Southern will win 13-6.

Furman after the defeat handed Georgia will have little difficulty in defeating Presbyterian College. The Vanderbilt-Georgia go now centers attention. The game is being played in Nashville and Vandy has the stain of an ignominious defeat of last year to remove, whether she has that stain removing quality is more than likely to ed their footing after the attack of the Generals last week. Florida has no team to speak of this year and a defeat of Kentucky can be called another upset. Kentucky should win by a pair of touchdowns, the score would likely be larger if the Kentuckians were not playing in Jacksonville.

V. P. I. should defeat Virginia, though the Cavaliers have a habit of making things hard for other

Decides On Best Life Insurance

Five years ago I was refused life insurance because of my heart symptoms. Doctors said it was caused from a pressure of gas that came from my stomach, but their medicine did not help me and I was getting worse all the time. Three years ago my druggist recommended MAYR'S. I took a course of it and believe it is the best life insurance anyone can buy. It helped my trouble at once. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. Pimples~or a beautiful clear skin such as S.S.S. gives

Oh, the charm that lies in a perfect skin! It's clear, soft, velvet smoothness is the admiration of all men and the envy of less fortunate women.

But what heartaches, when your mirror reveals unsightly pimples, that mar this greatest of all womanly charms. Pimples, blackheads, blotches, eczema and all skin disfigurements tell a story of weak blood. Blood lacking healthy, rich, red-blood-cells.

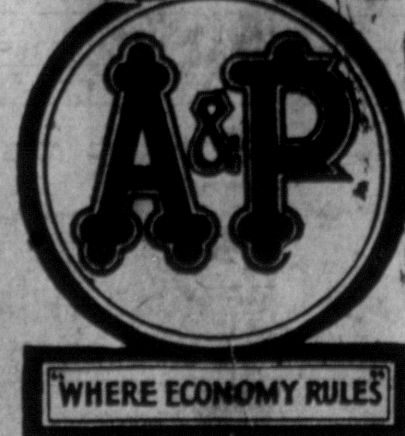

And yet, how easy it is to be free from these annoying, beauty-destroying blemishes. How easy to keep the skin clear, clean and radiant with the glow of health. Simply build rich, red blood. S. S. S. helps Nature do it. It builds red-blood-cells by the millions! Pimples nor any other eruption can remain when the skin is nourished with the rich, red, pure blood that S. S. S. helps Nature build. They are driven right away.

And there's no other way. Nothing but a plentiful supply of healthy red blood will keep your skin healthy. For 100 years S. S. S., made from vegetable medicinal ingredients, has proven it.

And oh, the joy of living S. S. S. brings back to you. Notice for yourself the quick difference in the way you look, feel, sleep and eat after taking S. S. S. At all drug stores. The larger size is more economical.
